

BriTE, Bristol Technologies for the Environment is a new trans-disciplinary research institute being developed by the University of Bristol. BriTE will focus on research into environmental technologies and sustainability, incorporating a number of themes including Cities, Energy, Adaptation to Climate Change, Transport, Hazards and Risk, Materials, and Water.